Excerpt: .teacher, in most cases a law unto himself and a neighborhood oracle, knew little of the methods of his brethren in other places, and never regarded himself as an element of a general system; and his progress was only in the mechanical art of writing. The method of teaching was extremely primitive--to look on the book and make a decent droning noise of any kind, not out of the common key, would insure immunity from the all-potent rod. There were no lectures, few explanations, no oral instruction--to get through the book was the great end, and to whip well the paramount means. A DISTINGUISHED GUEST. No event that had ever occurred in the history of Raleigh was hailed with so much joy, or aroused more enthusiasm, than the visit, in April, 1844, of Henry Clay, the Whig candidate for President. Thousands of people came from...
