Reviews

This ebook will never be effortless to get started on studying but extremely fun to read through. It is actually written in easy phrases and never difficult to understand. It is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding, once you begin to read the book.

Forgotten Books, United States, 2015. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 229 x 152 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from The Artist and the Nobleman Carravaggio s Studio - a large room; a projecting closet in the middle, a window and door at left, a door at right; paintings, chairs, c. (A knock at the door is heard.) Daverna. [Entering.] No answer, so there is no indiscretion. [Enters and closes the door behind him.] At last I am in the sanctuary that has so long been closed to me! It is true that I have more than once caused Carravaggio to regret saying that I was no judge of paintings; my satires have been most successful; still I admire the works of the worthy successor of divine Raphael. [Admiring the paintings.] What a number of master pieces - and unfinished! The very canvass breathes beneath his brush. Enter Stefano, mournfully. Stefano. [Without seeing Daverna.] They refuse to give us credit any more! It is a pity! The confectioner s cakes looked very inviting! How hard, at my age, to have to eat dry bread for breakfast. What! a man here! My brother forbade me to let any one enter this room excepting his fair unknown. Daverna. Why! it is little Stefano! Stefano. You here, Signor Daverna! - Who allowed you to enter? Daverna. I knocked, received no answer and walked in. Stefano. Depart, signer, depart; go elsewhere to insult with your infamous satires my brother s genius - Daverna. Come, silence, little embryo, just from the cradle. Stefano. You - a man - should blush at receiving lessons from a child. Your conduct towards my brother is unworthy of an honest man. Daverna. Take care, beardless boy! About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of...
